

TERESA NICHOLLS, E.DS

SENIOR CONSULTANT

Theresa served as the assistant commissioner for special populations at the Tennessee Department of Education. There, she led initiatives aimed at improving special education programming for students with disabilities. Theresa has been engaged in dispute resolution procedures throughout her career, from being a meeting facilitator to overseeing state administrative complaints. Through these experiences, Theresa has developed a passion for ensuring families have opportunities for meaningful engagement throughout the IEP development and implementation processes.

Resides in Tennessee

Having served as a special educator at the school, district, and state levels to improve special education policy and implementation, Theresa is passionate about improving the experience that families and students have as they navigate their own journeys.

“Clearly a brilliant leader. I particularly appreciated her articulate presence and obvious expertise regarding good pedagogy. This was a top-notch team of trainers who complemented each other and made this workshop a joy.”
